

The United States Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position in leadership or behavioral science to begin as early as July 2024. This is an onsite, 10-month compensation, federal faculty tenure-track (not yet tenured) position (initial pre-tenure appointment is a 3-year renewable appointment) with a highly competitive salary, and full federal benefits. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Teach at least one, but preferably both, of two leadership courses that are required of all students—a course on applied behavioral science for leaders (first year students) and a course on organizational behavior (third year students)
- Develop appropriate pedagogical methods for those courses, methods that successfully teach undergraduates to comprehend and apply principles of leadership and leader development
- Develop and teach advanced undergraduate courses in leadership or behavioral sciences
- Produce peer-reviewed scholarly products and develop a sustained record of collaborative scholarly productivity at USNA while simultaneously fulfilling normal teaching and service duties
- Show an appropriate level of creative independence as a scholar and oversee a small number of research projects
- Contribute to the service duties expected of all USNA faculty members

Minimum:

- Must be a U.S. citizen
- A Ph.D. in leadership, behavioral science, or closely related field is required at the time of appointment (completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2024 is acceptable)

Preferred:

- Ability to teach and further develop both of the two leadership courses which are required of all students
- An empirical research agenda that aligns with and contributes to the Naval Academy's overall efforts to research and assess leadership.
