- a cover letter
- curriculum vitae (including a publication list)
- a research and teaching statement (no more than three single-spaced pages)
- a brief (no more than 300 words) summary of their research program
- contact information for at least three referees (complete with addresses and phone numbers). We will request letters of recommendation for a short list of finalists only.

The Sociology Department, School of Humanities and Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an inclusive academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds, identities, and outlooks. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research or teaching statements, a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these ideals.

The salary range for this position is $145K-$315K.

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.
