

The Department of Sociology at Georgia State University invites applications for a full-time online Lecturer position to preferably begin Spring 2023 for our new Online BA Major Program in Sociology. The candidate must have the appropriate expertise to teach undergraduate Methods and Statistics, as well as two electives of their choosing for this new online program.

Essential Qualifications:

- Ability to teach statistics, as well as quantitative and qualitative research methods
- Ability to deliver effective online instruction and a commitment to teaching excellence.
- Interest in teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds.
- A Ph.D. in hand or evidence that a PhD will be awarded by June 2023.

Preferred Qualifications:

- An interest in online education and innovation

Applicants Should Submit the Following Material:

- Letter of application that details how the qualifications are met for online learning.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- Statement of teaching philosophy.
- Sample syllabi.
- Detailed statement on how they will facilitate a diverse and inclusive learning environment both in and outside the classroom.
- Any additional evidence of teaching effectiveness.
- A list of three professional references (name, title, email address, and telephone number) who are willing to provide letters of reference.

Please submit all materials electronically to sociologysearch@gsu.edu. Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2023. Application reviews will continue until the position is filled.

Located in downtown Atlanta and designated as a minority-serving institution, Georgia State University has one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation and is nationally recognized for its record in student success regardless of race, ethnicity, and income level. Lecturers at Georgia State University are full-time non-tenure track faculty with both teaching and service requirements who directly contribute to this mission of educating a highly diverse student body. Lecturers have the opportunity for promotion to Senior Lecturer and Principal Senior Lecturer. Our lecturers are full members of the department's intellectual community and leadership team. Lecturers in our department teach a variety of courses and can lead study abroad trips, as well as develop academic teams and experiential learning courses. The College of Arts & Sciences supports professional success for all faculty through mentoring programs and representation of faculty from all ranks in college-level program development. GSU is an institutional member of the National Center for Faculty Development & Diversity. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

Further information about the Sociology Department can be found at Sociology - Sociology at Georgia State \(gsu.edu\). Georgia State University, a unit of the University System of Georgia, is an equal opportunity institution and an EEO/AA employer. An offer of employment will be conditional on background verification.