The SJSU Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Program (WGSS), housed in the Department of Sociology and Interdisciplinary Social Sciences (SISS), is seeking a full-time, tenure-track open rank faculty position in Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. We seek someone for this position with an area of specialization in Chicana/Latina feminism and women of color feminism; candidates with secondary areas of specialization in gender and community organizing, gender and religion, gender and labor, and/or gender and migration are especially welcome to apply.

SJSU WGSS is one of the oldest programs of its kind in the country. In addition to supporting the WGSS minor and a concentration within the sociology major, we are in the process of programmatic development and expansion including the creation of a WGSS major. WGSS hosts the Carol Mukhopadhyay Feminist Lecture Series, a university-wide event that draws emerging scholars in the field and is a site of feminist praxis for the campus community. We also maintain collaborations with units across campus, including various student success centers and academic departments. As part of Sociology and Interdisciplinary Social Sciences, which also houses the Asian American Studies program, WGSS is part of a robust network of interdisciplinary departmental colleagues. The position advertised is one of a number of hires across campus with a focus on Latinx/a/o experiences. Moreover, SJSU is in the process of launching Somos SJSU, a campus-specific Hispanic Serving Institution framework, with new opportunities for professional development around supporting Latinx student success.
