

The Department of Sociology and the Sandra Rosenbaum School of Social Work at the University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor with research and teaching interests in the societal aspects of sexual violence. Job duties for faculty positions include research, teaching, and service. Ph.D. in Sociology or Social Work, with a specialization in sexual violence research is required. Candidates should have a deep knowledge of research on sexual violence and a research program on sexual assault, sexual harassment, sex trafficking, violence against sexual minorities, or gender-based violence.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is January 25, 2020; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled. This faculty position is part of the University of Wisconsin's Cluster Hiring Initiative. We already have filled two positions in this cluster (one in the Department of Psychology and the other in the La Follette School of Public Affairs) and are seeking applicants for the third on societal aspects of sexual violence [PVL 229867]. Candidates should have an interest in collaborating with the cluster. Ultimately, it is a goal that an expansion of this research area at UW-Madison will translate into reductions in sexual violence on campus, in Wisconsin, and beyond.

Please follow this link for additional details and/or to apply for this position:
<https://jobs.hr.wisc.edu/en-us/job/507101/assistant-professor-societal-aspects-of-sexual-violence-cluster-hire>

Direct any questions to:
Joseph Conti
Associate Chair, Department of Sociology
UW-Madison
jconti@wisc.edu